MESSAGE FROM THE CHAIR

David Tuccaro

On behalf of Indspire's Board of Directors, it is my pleasure to share with you this report which highlights the achievements of Indspire over the past 12 months.

In 2019-2020, Indspire awarded an unprecedented $17.8 million in scholarships, bursaries and awards to First Nations, Inuit and Métis students through the Building Brighter Futures (BBF) program. This represents an increase of 9.2% over the previous year ($17.8 million vs $16.3 million) - a new record. Indspire is thrilled to be helping so many Indigenous students realize their dreams of having a post-secondary education. With a graduation rate of 90%, Indspire funded students are building brighter futures for themselves and Indigenous people across Canada. None of this is possible without the generous support of government and Indigenous leadership, sponsors and individual donors from across Canada who invest in our mission – we are deeply grateful.

Despite all this, Indigenous people are still struggling to obtain higher education within Canadian school systems. Indspire was able to meet 22% of applicants' financial needs last year and the COVID-19 pandemic has further added to the financial pressure the students are facing. We know we have to do better and believe that together we can.

Finally, on behalf of the board, I would like to thank our courageous leader, Roberta Jamieson. In March 2020, Roberta publicly announced her intention to step away from her roles as President & CEO of Indspire and Executive Producer of the Indspire Awards. Since 2004, under Roberta's leadership, financial support to First Nation, Inuit, and Métis students has increased eightfold: 42,500 scholarship and bursaries valued at over $132 million have been distributed. Roberta has also launched many ground-breaking initiatives during her tenure including the National Gathering for Indigenous Education, the Rivers to Success Indigenous Student Mentorship program and the Research Knowledge Nest, just to name a few. The impact Roberta has had over the past 16 years on the lives of thousands of First Nations, Inuit and Métis students will be felt for generations to come. Chi-miigwech (thank you).

I'm happy to report that Dr. Mike DeGagné, the former President and Vice Chancellor of Yukon and Nipissing Universities, will be Indspire's next President and CEO. With his extensive background in public service and his longstanding commitment to Indigenizing education across Canada, Mike is dedicated to strengthening Indspire's voice as an authoritative source of information and support for Indigenous education.

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT AND CEO

Roberta L. Jamieson

At Indspire, we always challenge ourselves to lead with relevance and innovation. We firmly believe that improving educational attainment is the key to creating systemic change in communities. In this context, and with the help of our partners, we launched two new initiatives this past year to better help us meet our goals: The Indspire Research Knowledge Nest and the enhanced Rivers To Success: Indigenous Student Mentorship Program.

The first of its kind in Canada, the Research Nest's mission is two-fold: to improve Indigenous educational attainment, labour market outcomes and community prosperity through ground-breaking Indigenous research; and to hire, train, and support the next generation of Indigenous researchers. By gaining new, data-driven insights into the impact of education on First Nations, Inuit, and Métis communities while promoting the development of new Indigenous researchers and analysts, we are laying the foundation for substantive changes in how education can effect positive change in Indigenous communities.

To help guide students during their educational journey, we expanded the Rivers To Success: Indigenous Student Mentorship program. Through Rivers to Success, students are connected with Indigenous mentors who help them prioritize their own development, seek out exciting opportunities, and ultimately achieve success in their chosen fields.

Our flagship program, Building Brighter Futures: Bursaries, Scholarships and Awards continued to help students realize their educational dreams. In 2019-20, Indspire awarded an unprecedented $17.8 million in scholarships, bursaries and awards to 5,124 First Nation, Inuit, and Métis students. Many of these graduates are creating systemic change in their communities, with nearly 50% either working for an Indigenous community or an Indigenous-owned business.

With the added stress of COVID-19, Indigenous students need help now more than ever. Their success will make our country stronger, more innovative and inclusive and better able to thrive in this changing world. These three programs are a significant step in supporting First Nations, Inuit and Métis students to achieve their potential through education and training so they can in turn enrich their communities and create positive change in Canada.

Roberta L. Jamieson

On a personal note, in March 2020, I made public my intention to step away from my roles as President & CEO of Indspire and Executive Producer of the Indspire Awards over the coming year. I am so proud to have led an Indigenous organization that is making systemic change within First Nations, Inuit and Métis communities and Canada for the past 16 years. I would like to say Nia:wen (thank you) to the hard-working staff who are so passionately committed to our work, to David Tuccaro, the chair of our board, and all the board of directors who have provided the courageous and solid guidance Indspire required to grow and develop into one of the Top 10 Charities of Impact in Canada. I extend my heartfelt appreciation to the governments, corporations, foundations, First Nations, Inuit and Métis leaders, and individual Canadians who have supported and continue to support Indspire and make our work possible. They believe as do I that with all of us working together we can realize Indspire’s North Star vision: Within a generation, every Indigenous student will graduate.

RESEARCH KNOWLEDGE NEST (RN)

Fostering the Future

Not every job allows you to shape the future – and not just your own future, but that of Indigenous research in Canada!

But Colt Burrows’s job does. The very first Researcher hired by Indspire’s Research & Impact Unit, he thinks about this every day he goes to work with Indspire’s Research Knowledge Nest (RN). A member of the Algonquins of Greater Golden Lake, Colt knows just how important it is to foster the next generation of Indigenous researchers – from a very personal perspective. “Research to me is about finding that connection to community...centering the experiences of my community within my research practice has always been at the forefront of the work I’m engaged with. And this includes the work I carry out within Indspire’s Research Knowledge Nest. It has been an overwhelmingly positive experience.”

The RN is the first Indigenous research program of its kind in Canada. With data analysis skills rapidly becoming critical to economic success, the RN is poised to seize this exciting opportunity to foster Indigenous engagement and leadership in quantitative research and data science roles. Its work will provide decision-makers with key insights into the educational attainment of First Nations, Inuit, and Métis peoples in Canada.

Another key part of the RN’s mandate is to foster the development of the next generation of Indigenous researchers and analysts. The RN’s Research Assistant program provides a supportive learning environment for up-and-coming Indigenous researchers to receive hands-on work experience in quantitative research and data analysis roles.

The RN’s very first Research Assistant, Joshua Thomas, has very positive thoughts about his role. A member of the Snuneymuxw First Nation, Thomas has an MA in economics and is excited to be contributing to the RN’s vital mandate. “The combination of Indigenous research experience, skills training, networking, and mentorship provided the perfect opportunity at this point in my career. This type of program is pretty unique in the workforce, particularly for Indigenous people. I know my time at Indspire will be highly beneficial throughout my future employment journey.”

Josh will be instrumental in the creation of the Nest’s very first report: the Building Brighter Futures: Bursaries, Scholarships and Awards Recipients’ Outcomes Report, which will examine the data shared by years of BBF recipients to give insights about educational and economic outcomes for Indigenous students in Canada as well as those students’ educational experiences: how do the students feel about the path of their studies? How many graduate, and when? What career fields do they enter after graduation?

In addition to this report, which will also include a webinar, the RN team will be releasing three more research projects in 2019-2020 including: a joint report (and webinar) with the Canadian Council on Aboriginal Business (Indigenous Post-Secondary Graduates’ Experiences in the Canadian Workforce), the Nurturing Capacity Synthesis Report and the Nurturing Capacity Guidebook.

This research is a vital component of not only Indspire’s mandate, but of the future picture of Indigenous research in Canada. Colt Burrows says, “As I reflect on my experience as a Researcher with Indspire, I feel very grateful. Grateful to have contributed to the success of a new wave of Indigenous researchers, and grateful to continue supporting the educational journeys of all Indigenous students in Canada. Our future as Indigenous Peoples is looking brighter and brighter!”

RIVERS TO SUCCESS (R2S)

New Streams from Deep Sources

Julia Stoneman knows what it’s like to start anew – and to follow your dreams wherever they may take you. Hired by Indspire’s Programs & Student Success (PSS) team as one of the new Rivers to Success (R2S) Mentorship Officers, she moved herself and her family across the country from her roots in Misipawistik Cree Nation, Manitoba, because she believed so strongly in the program. “I am so excited to be working in an Indigenous based organization where I can make connections with mentees and mentors across the country who support one another to chase and accomplish their dreams.”

After several years of working with Indigenous students in a university environment, Julia will now bring her experience to shape the newly revitalized R2S program. Based on revelations from Indspire’s 2018 Truth & Reconciliation in Education: Student Experience report, Indspire decided to rework the existing R2S program based on student input. First Nations, Inuit, and Métis students from across the country told us that receiving support from Indigenous mentors was essential for them in order to succeed as they pursued their education.

And we listened. The new R2S emphasizes mentorship, building on the already-strong foundations of the previous program to bring even more support to Indigenous students at several different stages of their educational journey. The revitalized program features three streams:

High School
(for students in Grs. 10-12)
2.

Post-Secondary
(for post-secondary students or Gr. 12 students who will be starting post-secondary studies after graduation)
3.

Career Transition
(for students who are about to graduate and begin their careers)

Mentorship, is at the heart of many ground-breaking educational initiatives – and has particular resonance for Indigenous communities. Indigenous mentors are a valuable source of wisdom, insight, and lessons from life experience.

R2S will be using an online Portal through the MentorCity platform to facilitate two types of mentorship: group (available for all three streams) and one-on-one (available for the Post-Secondary and Career Transition streams). Students will not only have access to online resources in a wide variety of media on an equally wide array of student-focused topics, they’ll also be able to liaise with Elders and Knowledge Keepers, ensuring that they will still remain grounded in their own cultures even if they’ve had to leave their communities to study.

In 2019-2020, R2S is planning on engaging 1,100 participants in the mentorship program across Canada. R2S is always on the lookout for new Indigenous participants, whether they’re mentors or mentees. To learn more about the program – or to sign up yourself – go online to indspire.ca/rivers and click the ‘sign up here’ button. We’d love to share the journey with you!

NATIONAL GATHERING FOR INDIGENOUS EDUCATION

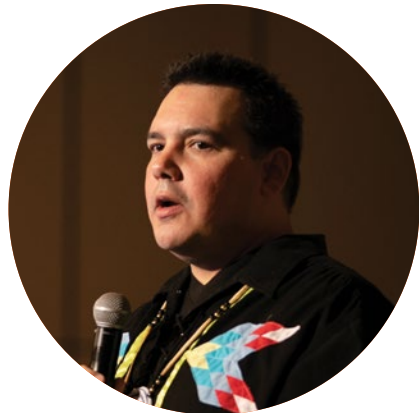

Canada’s Leading Voices on Indigenous Education

The National Gathering for Indigenous Education is a place where educators and partners can share their voices and work together to improve the educational outcomes of K-12 First Nations, Inuit and Métis students.

“That you will leave feeling inspired and ready to go back to your school with new ideas. Indspire has helped me meet other like-minded educators and has enabled me to feel less alone on my journey as a teacher. I have been to 4 national gatherings and look forward to attending many more.”

“The conference brings to light, the importance of Truth and Reconciliation and how it is important to focus on attitude, not only information.”

Featuring over 35 workshops and 65 tradeshow booths, the National Gathering attracted 815 attendees who gathered to discuss emerging trends affecting Indigenous students today and learn about best practices centered around the theme: Transforming and Healing through Education.

GUIDING THE JOURNEY: INDIGENOUS EDUCATOR AWARDS

Guiding the Journey recognizes and celebrates outstanding educators for their achievement and innovation in Indigenous education. These educators work hard to transform Indigenous education across Canada by advocating for updated resources and more cultural teachings in the curriculum; having innovative teaching practices; and helping First Nations, Inuit and Métis students reach their full potential.

Six educators and one organization were honoured at the National Gathering in Toronto on November 22, 2019.

SOARING: INDIGENOUS YOUTH EMPOWERMENT GATHERING

Helping Indigenous Students Realize Their Educational Dreams

Taking place in Ottawa on March 5 – 6, 2020, the 2020 Edition of Soaring: Indigenous Youth Empowerment Gathering was attended by over 600 First Nations, Inuit and Métis students and their chaperones. This two-day event took place in the days leading up to the Indspire Awards and featured career information and workshops, talented and notable speakers and Indigenous performers and Campus and Experience Days at the University of Ottawa, Bank of Canada, NAV Canada, Ingenium and Saint Paul University. It also provided an opportunity for more than 400 students to attend the Indspire Awards.

Surveys completed by student participants provided some valuable insight into how Soaring got them excited about post-secondary education. The following is a snapshot of what youth shared:

BUILDING BRIGHTER FUTURES: BURSARIES, SCHOLARSHIPS AND AWARDS

Opening Doors Through Education

Through its Building Brighter Futures program (BBF), Indspire’s longest running and most well-known program, hundreds of scholarships, bursaries and awards are disbursed to thousands of Indigenous students every year. Indspire recognizes that First Nations, Inuit and Métis students may encounter additional barriers to completing their education. Through Indspire’s BBF program, students can receive financial assistance to help pay for school – whether it involves having to relocate, pay rent, buy groceries, or any other expenses.

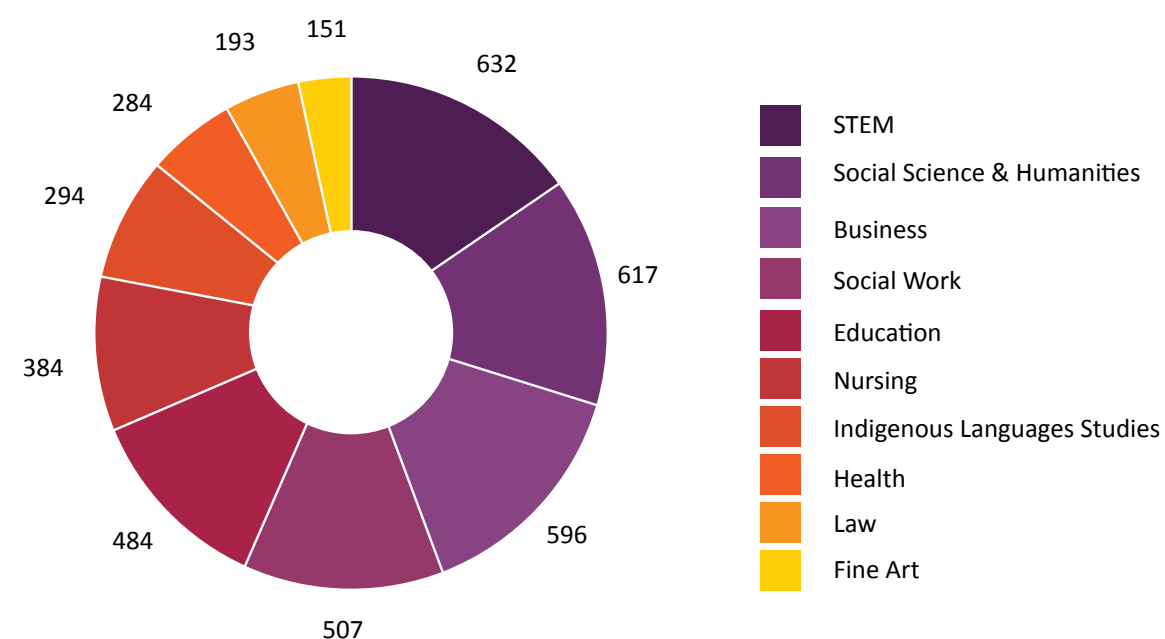

Since 2004, in partnership with Indigenous, private, and public sector supporters, Indspire has distributed more than 42,500 scholarships and bursaries, valued at over $132 million to First Nations, Inuit and Métis students through its BBF program. In 2019-20, Indspire disbursed more than $17.8 million to 5,553 Indigenous students.

Ninety per cent of students who have received funding have graduated from a post-secondary institution. Approximately 50 per cent of employed recipients work in fields that support Indigenous people.

INDSPIRE AWARDS

Celebrating Indigenous Achievement

Since 1993, the Indspire Awards have honoured 373 First Nations, Inuit, and Métis professionals and youth who demonstrate outstanding career achievement on a national level. Recipients are chosen from a variety of fields including the arts, business, culture, education, health, law, public service, sports, lifetime achievement and three Youth Awards. Each year, recipients are selected by a national jury of past laureates.

These positive role models are a source of inspiration for First Nations, Inuit and Métis youth. The 2020 Indspire Awards were held on March 6, 2020 at the National Arts Centre in Ottawa, Ontario and was broadcast on Sunday, June 21 at 8 p.m. (8:30 p.m. NT) on CBC, APTN and CBC Radio One.

2019 NATIONAL GATHERING FOR INDIGENOUS EDUCATION

To learn more about our impact, visit <https://indspire.ca/programs/impact-research/impact/>

The financial support received for the National Gathering helps bring educators from across the country together to learn from more than 35 workshops and presentations over two days. It allows these educators to explore Canada’s rich Indigenous cultures, traditions, and histories and bring them back to their classrooms from coast-to-coast-to-coast and engages educators in activities that will support success for their Indigenous K-12 students. The Guiding the Journey: Indigenous Educator Awards, which recognize Indigenous educators who have made valuable contributions to community-based education and honour the principles of Indigenous knowledge, are also given out at the National Gathering.

2020 INDSPIRE AWARDS

The Indspire Awards bestow the highest honour on Indigenous people who have made significant contributions to Indigenous education, culture, business, health, law, sports and public service in Canada as well as three youth awards to First Nations, Inuit and Métis role models. An award is also given to honour one individual's significant lifetime achievements. The Awards ceremony is a dazzling showcase of top First Nation, Inuit and Métis entertainers and is broadcast nationally on CBC and APTN each year in June. This one-of-a-kind event continues to break down stereotypes and share the stories of inspiring role models for Indigenous youth across Canada.
